"Your calling should bless and affect the lives of others for good." -Sunday Adelaja

God calls us to serve others. The life of George Müller shows how a calling can change lives drastically. Müller began his work in 1836 by opening up his own rented home in Bristol to 30 orphaned girls. He went on to care for over 10,000 orphans throughout his life. His calling no doubt changed the lives of the children he worked tirelessly for which to provide. While most of us do not have the resources to serve as George Muller did, we can do small acts of service to lessen others' burdens and troubles. In what way have others blessed your life through small acts of service?

One of my favorite ways to relax at night is soak in a nice warm tub, light a few candles, and put on some relaxing music. The only problem is finding the time!

“Oh, this is a reality, not a fable, that the Lord Jesus Christ is our friend. And we should not be satisfied till we are brought to this” -George Muller

Like all friendships, our relationship with Jesus must be nurtured. I'd love if you share how you nurture your friendship with Jesus.

This year Thanksgiving may look a lot different for most of us. Let us count our blessings and be thankful for all the Lord has provided us.
